

Georgian First Channel is ready to allocate airtime for the debates to all the candidates in the second round of the Parliamentary Elections.

Georgian First Channel offers debates that will be conducted in line with the international standard, provides equal conditions and time for a presentation.

Detailed information on the debate format will be provided to the participants in advance, upon confirmation of the participation in the project.

Based on the Central Election Commission (CEC) preliminary data, the runoff election will be held on November 21 in 16 constituencies.